Appendix A.—Forms for Processes and Proceedings in the Civil Courts subordinate to the Appellate Jurisdiction of the High Court 423

Appendix B.—Miscellaneous Forms 431

FORMS.

The forms in the lists annexed have been prescribed for use in the Civil Courts subordinate to the Appellate Jurisdiction of the High Court.

PREFATORY NOTE.

IN these Appendices have been included all the forms at present prescribed for use in the Civil Courts subordinate to the High Court. Appendix A contains the forms for processes and formal proceedings of the Courts, and Appendix B the forms for returns, registers, &c., and those prescribed for general use in the offices and to save clerical labor. Applications for the supply of obsolete forms which have not been unfrequent hitherto, should henceforward be avoided.

Suggestions for the amendment of forms are often received in the High Court from District Judges and other officers and lead to correspondence, which would not have been necessary if the officers had been able to describe accurately the changes in the size and make of the paper of the form which they propose. In the tables of forms a full description of each is given, and this, together with the annexed extract from a note by Mr. F. C. Barnes, Superintendent of Stationery, Bengal, should afford all the information necessary to enable officers in future to set out their suggestions with clearness and precision.

C. M. W. BRETT.

Extract from a Note by Mr. F. C. Barnes, Superintendent of Stationery, Bengal.

Paper may be divided into three principal classes,—Writing, Printing, and Wrapping papers.

Writing Paper.—Of writing paper there are essentially but two kinds, viz., wove and laid, so called from their appearance. When held up to the light the former looks closely woven like calico, the latter shows distinct linear marks, and is commonly known as "ribbed."

Each of these two kinds of writing paper contains varieties, thus:—Blue wove is a paper of woven texture, but blue in colour; Cream wove is a woven paper of a creamy colour; Yellow wove is a woven paper resembling cream in colour, but with a bluish tinge. Blue papers of a low colour are often styled azure. In laid papers there are only two colours, viz., blue laid and cream laid. All these papers, however, vary in shades of colouring, and a paper is said to be high or low in colour according as to whether it is strongly coloured or the reverse. The kind, substance, and quality of a paper is spoken of collectively as the "make."

All writing papers may be had in hand and machine-made sorts. The peculiar properties of hand-made paper are great lateral strength, toughness, durability, and intensity of hardness as regards sizing, that have not been quite successfully attained in those made by the machine process. But for all purposes of an ordinary nature, especially that of mere correspondence when the letters are not required as permanent records, machine-made papers, from their highly finished surface and lowness of price, are by far the most advantageous for general use. For this reason the use of hand-made writing paper is prohibited in Government offices, vide Resolution, Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce, No. 198, dated 17th January 1882, and is only used in official work for registers and documents of great importance when strength and durability are essential requisites.

The many sizes in which writing paper is made are known by distinctive technical names. The sizes most commonly used in official correspondence are—

Foolscap.	Quarter post.
Double foolscap.	Octavo note.

There is a class of writing paper generally known as "book papers" and used for ledgers, registers, and account books in mercantile houses. This series is nearly always made of blue laid paper. The principal sizes are—

Demy	20 by 15½ inches.	Royal	24 by 19 inches.
Medium	22 by 17½ „	Super Royal	27 by 19¼ „

Imperial 30 by 22 inches.

If similar sizes are made in cream wove paper, the paper is then classed as a drawing paper, but it has a more extended range, viz.:—

Elephant	28 by 23¼ inches,	standard weight	72lb
Atlas	34 by 26 „	„ „	98 „
Double Elephant	40 by 26¾ „	„ „	150 „
Antiquarian	53 by 31 „	„ „	240 „
Emperor	72 by 48.

Drawing papers are generally hand-made and are very expensive; the price at which Emperor is issued from the Stationery Office is R961 per ream; Antiquarian R660 per ream. Book or blue laid papers are both hand-made and machine-made. The difference in price between a 15lb foolscap of the two kinds is hand-made R16, machine-made R8, per ream. The substitution of machine-made for hand-made papers, whenever possible, is therefore a desirable method of economy.

A ream of paper consists of 20 quires of 24 sheets or 480 sheets in all, which are put up either flat or folded. Paper is sold in the wholesale trade by weight. The price per lb of cream wove paper, made by the Indian Paper Mills, is 3 annas 7 pie per lb, and a 15lb cream wove would therefore cost R3-5-9 per ream.

A full description of any paper must give not only its "make" and size but also its weight per ream, and the number of sheets in a ream being a fixed quantity, it follows that the thickness of each sheet is regulated by the weight of the ream, thus—

Make.	Size.	Weight.
Hand-made blue laid	Imperial	72lb
Machine-made cream wove	Foolscap	14 „

defines strictly the exact colour, substance, and kind of a paper, its thickness to a leaf, and its size to an inch.

Printing Papers.—It would be impossible to enumerate the almost endless variety of purposes besides printing that this class of paper is applied to. For official business it is mostly confined to its principal use, that of printing, but it also forms the covering materials for paste-boards, and in coloured kinds it is used for the covers of books and pamphlets, for the envelopes in which telegrams are distributed, &c.

For printing purposes the paper is generally white, in fact, in the English trade printing papers are technically known as "whites." Many officers indent for it under the description of Serampore paper, but no such paper is issued by the Stationery Office. In India a special sort of printing paper is manufactured by the Indian Mills called half-bleached or "badami," and is extensively used for printing the commoner kinds of forms, such as chalans, notices, and vernacular documents. This paper is less expensive than the bleached paper, and it is economical to use it in place of white for unimportant printing work.

The principal sizes are—

Demy .	. 22½	by	17½	inches,	weight from	12 to 24lb
Medium .	. 24	„	19	„	„	16 „ 30 „
Royal .	. 25	„	20	„	„	16 „ 30 „
Super Royal	. 28	„	20	„	„	20 „ 40 „
Imperial .	. 30	„	22	„	„	30 „ 60 „
Double Foolscap	27	„	17	„	„	10 „ 32 „
„ Demy	. 35	„	22½	„	„	30 „ 60 „
„ Royal	. 40	„	25	„	„	40 „ 60 „

It will be observed that there is a material difference in size between writing and printing papers of a similar denomination, which, although corresponding in name, do not correspond in measurement.

Wrapping Papers.—The paper used for thick envelopes and wrapping purposes is a brown cartridge. The quality of cartridge paper has a wide range from the common rough, tough, whitey-brown kinds to the white, or clean and smooth sorts, but slightly inferior to the best drawing papers. White cartridge paper is also largely used by the Government for printing work requiring large stout papers. This paper is, as a rule, put up flat.

The principal sizes are—

Demy . . .	$22\frac{1}{2}$	by $17\frac{1}{2}$	inches,	weight 24	to 30lb
Royal . . .	25	„ 20	„	„ 26	„ 40 „
Elephant . .	28	„ 23	„	„ 30	„ 70 „
Imperial . .	30	„ 22	„	„ 30	„ 80 „

Double Foolscap . 27 by 17 inches.

Indents for Forms.

[Annual and Emergent Indents for Judicial Forms—C. O. No. 3 of 25th September, 1897.]—(a) Annual Indents for Authorized Civil Miscellaneous forms must be submitted to the Superintendent of Stationery not later than the 1st of December of each year for a supply for the twelve months from 1st July to 30th June following; and for forms of Civil Process and Proceedings not later than the 1st November in each year for a supply for the twelve months from 1st June to 31st May following.

(b) Emergent Indents can be sent in, and will be complied with at any time of the year; but such Indents should be sent in through the High Court.

(c) Attention is invited to Rule 8, page 11 of the Stationery Manual 1890, which lays down that if an officer's demand in the case of any item is more than 10 per cent. in excess of his average consumption, the quantity in excess of 10 per cent. is not to be passed unless a satisfactory explanation is entered in the Indent. This Rule will be carried out strictly in future in all cases.
